Importance of Sino-U.S. Relations

- Our common dangers and our common interests have drawn our two nations together at a critical time in history.
- A strong and independent China, and good relations between China and the U.S. are in our own self-interest. We are very pleased with the progress our two nations have made in the development of our relations and we intend to insure that this progress continues.
- It is a cornerstone of our policy to see that Chinese strength and independence are maintained. Dr. Kissinger will discuss this specifically with you.

Cambodia

- It will be important to reiterate to Huang the points you and I have made to them regarding a Cambodian settlement. Briefly:
  - We agreed with the objective Prime Minister Chou En-lai stated to Ambassador Bruce: a neutral, independent and free Cambodia.
  - Reaching a settlement in Cambodia is a matter of greatest importance. It is key to the resolution of remaining issues in Indochina. It will have a very positive impact on Sino-U.S. relations.
  - The U.S. is not committed to any one man in Cambodia. We seek a settlement that will permit the warring elements to live together; over time the Cambodian people can determine for themselves what would be best for their future.
  - As we have stated, we are prepared to stop our bombing, withdraw our advisory group, arrange for Lon Nol to leave for medical treatment in the U.S., in return for a ceasefire of 60-90 days duration, and negotiations between the Sihanouk group and the remainder of the Lon Nol group.
  - We are also prepared, if a ceasefire is arranged, to have talks between the staff of Ambassador Bruce and the staff of Prince Sihanouk.

- Further, Dr. Kissinger will be prepared to meet with Prince Sihanouk for political discussions during his visit to Peking if a ceasefire is in effect by that time.

Chou En-lai Visit

- We would be happy to have Prime Minister Chou En-lai visit the United States.
- The visit would serve the interests of both our countries, and demonstrate in concrete terms the improved relationship between us.
- The form such a visit might take would be adjusted to your wishes.

U.S. -Soviet Relations

- You and your government are familiar with the negotiations that finally culminated in the Agreement on the Prevention of Nuclear War we signed on June 22.
- When Dr. Kissinger described our objectives last February to your Prime Minister he said that we would undertake no obligation:
  - restricting the use of nuclear weapons;
  - involving third countries' relations with other third countries.
- We have lived up to that promise.
- I have made the following written statements to your Prime Minister:
  - The agreement confers no special rights on either the U. S. or the USSR. Further, we would oppose any such claim.
  - The U. S. will oppose a policy that aims at hegemony or seeks to bring about the isolation of the People's Republic.
  - Any consultation under Article 4 of the agreement will be fully discussed with the Chinese Government before it is initiated and will not be concluded before the Chinese Government has an opportunity to express its view.

- In no case will the U.S. participate in a joint move together with the Soviet Union under this agreement with respect to conflicts or disputes where the People's Republic of China is a party.
- What we have sought, and achieved, with this agreement is to inhibit Soviet behavior which would be contrary to our -- and your -- interests.
- Thus, there is no way the Soviets can resort to force without violating the agreement, thereby creating a legal basis for resistance. This is something we did not possess with respect to third countries prior to the signing of the agreement.
- As you know, I have written Chairman Brezhnev detailing our view of the agreement. I told him that:
  - We have not agreed to ban the use of any particular weapons.
  - The obligations we have accepted as applicable to conduct between the U.S. and the USSR are also applicable to our conduct toward others.
  - We have made commitments to each other but we have not agreed to impose any particular obligation or solution on others.
  - We have left the rights of the U.S. and the USSR, and the obligations each of us has undertaken, unimpaired.
- The U.S. will never participate in maneuvers aimed at isolating the People's Republic. We will never make an agreement that will be used to bring pressure on the People's Republic.
- Dr. Kissinger will be prepared publicly to state our opposition to hegemony and our readiness for full consultations with the PRC during his August visit to Peking.
